INTELLIGENCE SUMMARY.

(Erase heading not required.)

Place	Date	Hour	Summary of Events and Information	Remarks and references to Appendices
Before Guillemont	25/ 26th.		We relieved 2nd. Battalion E leinster Regiment in trenches to South of Guillemont. During relief a heavy bombardment started but caused very few casualties. Enemy were reported to have attacked on our right and left. Major Lascelles rejoined, as he had been appointed by XIVth. Corps and G.H.Q. had appointed another Officer. Colonel Harrington, who commanded 11th. R.B. was wounded.
do.	26/ 27th.		Battalion worked on burying dead and in deepening front line trenches. C.O. attended conference at which he heard that Brigade would attack Guillemont on 30th. Major Cotton ordered to take command of 11th. R.B.
do.	27/ 28th.		Battalion was ordered to dig assembly trench on right of Guillemont Trones Wood Road and in front of our line. Enemy's machine gun fire however prevented trench from being taped out and it had to be abandoned. We lost about ten men and 2/Lt. Ponsford, who was hit in No Mans Land and could not be found, although a patrol under Lieut. Dalton searched for 2½ hours, probably owing to number of corpses already there.
do.	28/ 29th.		Battalion worked on making assembly trenches etc.
do.	29th.		Preliminary bombardment began at 8.0 a.m. and our trenches were very heavily shelled. Both ourselves and 10th. K.R.R. on our right lost a large number of men. 2/Lt. Rutherford was wounded.
do.	29/ 30th.		Information was received that attack had been postponed and that we would be relieved. Relieved by 7th. K.O.Y.L.I. and returned to Craters. The Battalion was in a very exhausted and sick condition, as owing to the unsanitary nature of the trenches the men had been able to eat very little. The weather had been very wet and there were no shelters.

Nr. Carnoy.	1st.		The Battalion remained in the trenches and dugouts at the CRATERS on the CARNOY-MONTAUBAN road, resting and equipping for the assault on GUILLEMONT which had been fixed for the 3rd
do.	2nd.		The hours of daylight were spent at the CRATERS, and final touches put to the preparations for the next day's attack operations. In the evening four Officers were sent back to the Transport Lines to form a reserve viz:- Major E. LASCELLES, Lieut H. B. EVERARD, Lieut. W.T. KENNEDY and 2/Lt. C. M. BEAZLEY. At 9.0.p.m. the Battalion began to move up by Platoons to the trenches West of GUILLEMONT, which they reached with only a few casualties from shell fire on the way. On this occasion the whole Battalion and the 11th. Battalion were concentrated in the forward trenches LAMB and EDWARD (East of ARROW HEAD COPSE) which had been prepared as assembly trenches during the previous tour of the trenches. Joint Headquarters for the two Battalions were in a dugout in the forward end of Scottish Alley. Advanced Brigade Headquarters and report centre were at ARROWHEAD COPSE around Guillemont.	3rd.		Up to noon on this day the two Battalions waited in the Assembly Trenches suffering considerable discomfort from overcrowding and casualties from shell fire. At noon, which was the ZERO hour the advance began and proved completely successful. The operations are described in detail in the attached appendix "A" from which it will be seen that by 2.30.p.m. the Brigade had reached the line of the GUINCHY - WEDGEWOOD Road, where they remained. The rest of the day was spent in consolidating the position gained. The night was uneventful.	* See Appendix A at back
East of Guillemont.	4th.		The day was spent in the consolidated line, which was heavily shelled by the enemy the whole time. During the two days the casualties were unfortunately heavy, and amounted, among other ranks to Killed 35, Died of Wounds 6. Wounded 195, missing 54, Total 290.

During the afternoon of the 4th. two of the reserve Officers, Lieut. H. B. Everard and 2/Lt. C.M. Beazley, rejoined the Battalion under Orders from the Division, and on the Commanding Officer being wounded MAJOR E. LASCELLES, who then assumed Command, also went up to the line. After dark relieving troops from the 16th. (Irish) Division began to arrive and relief proceeded under great difficulties and pouring rain
Minden Post.	5th.		The Battalion reassembled at a bivouac Camp at MINDEN POST, south of CARNOY, the last man coming in at about 8.30 a.m. After an informal visit by the Brigadier the day was spent in resting and cleaning up, as far as the wet and muddy conditions allowed.
Bois de Tailles	6th.		The Battalion left the bivouac camp at 8.30 a.m. and proceeded to hutments in the BOIS DES TAILLES, a dirty camp with poor accommodation, which was reached about noon.
ao:	7th.		During the morning a change of camp from one part of the wood to another was ordered and carried out. 2/Lt. J. E. Trevor-Jones reported for duty
Corbie:	8th:		Lieut O. R. Ord rejoined the Battalion marched out and proceeded to CORBIE, arriving at very good billets about 9.0 p.m.

Corbie.	10th.		The Battalion rested and had ample facilities for bathing and washing.
Bois de Tailles.	11th.		The Battalion left CORBIE at 8.30 a.m., and at noon reached its first Camp in the BOIS DES TAILLES, which was round cleaned and improved. Lt. R. W. Train rejoined the Battalion.
do.	12th & 13th.		These two days were spent in examining continuing training so far as possible. Classes for Lewis Gunners, Bombers and signallers were held. A neighbouring aerodrome afforded an opportunity for studying co-operation with contact patrol aeroplanes.
HAPPY Valley.	14th.		In anticipation of the big operations to be carried out by the Corps next day the Battalion left its Camp at 2.45 p.m. and moved nearer the line to a canvas Camp in HAPPY VALLEY.
Mr. Bronfay Farm.	15th.		The Battalion moved again at 6.0 a.m. and at 7.30 a.m. reached a Camping ground North West of BRONFAY FARM, which was very dirty and contained no accommodation. After an hour or two a further move was carried out under orders from the Brigade to the place where the Transport Lines had been up to the 5th, about half a mile due West of BRONFAY FARM. There was no accommodation, but at dusk rough bivouacs were improvised and with the knowledge that at any moment they might be called on to move, the Battalion settled down for the night.

Talus Boise.	16th.		About 1:am orders arrived to move at 4 a.m. At that hour the Battalion proceeded to TALUS BOISE between CARNY and MARICOURT, and again found no accommodation. The day was spent in expectation of further orders, which came at about 6.30 p.m. In pursuance of these the Brigade set out at 8.45 p.m. for the Eastern edge of Trones Wood to pick up guides and relieve the 3rd Guards Brigade in the trenches just West of LESBOEUFS. The march up was slow and the relief was exceptionally difficult, owing to the guides and even Headquarters of the troops we relieved, having little idea of the real position they occupied.
In Trenches N.E. of Ginchy.	17th.		Relief was not completed until 5.25 a.m. During the day the shelling was as heavy as any experienced by the Battalion. It was discovered that we were holding as our front line a captured German communication trench at right angles to the front held by the enemy. To remedy this an assault on the enemy's front line was ordered by the Brigadier and duly carried out at 6.30 p.m. but was not successful, and that night the dispositions remained unchanged. Details of the operations will be found in Appendix "B" attached and *See Appendix B at back. There were particulars of the further heavy casualties in Appendix "B". These amounted, among other ranks to Killed 11, died of wounds 1, wounded 79, Missing 7, Total 97. Among the Officers Lt. H. B. Everard and 2/Lt. C. M. Beazley were wounded and Lt. O.R. Ord is missing at the time of writing. Lt. R. W. Train and 2/Lt. J. E. Trevor-Jones returned untouched.
do.	18th.		Rainy weather now set in and continued for the rest of the tour, making life in the wrecked trenches almost unbearable. There was no shelter of any kind and men

10TH. (SERVICE) BATTALION THE RIFLE BRIGADE.

The following is a short account of an incident in the operations against GUILLERMONT on the 3rd September last.

It will be remembered that the first and second objectives assigned to the 59th Brigade were two sunken roads branching out to the south-west and the south-east respectively from the south-western corner of the village (see rough sketch map attached).

The first objective was rushed without much opposition, but when the advance to the second objective began, a situation of some difficulty developed in front of that part of the line which was formed by troops from this Battalion.

Trench maps available before the attack had shown a communication trench joining up the two sunken roads but apparently no special preparation had been made for dealing with possible opposition in this trench, e.g. by means of bombers. As a matter of fact, the trench did not run at right angles to the roads as shown on the trench maps, but almost parallel with them (see rough sketch herewith, on which this trench is marked "Z").

When the time came to proceed from the first to the second objective, our troops left the first sunken road and moved some distance eastwards, but were soon met by a burst of fire from trench "Z" which had the effect of driving them under such cover as was available, and for a short time no further progress was made.

The problem thus arising was solved as follows. A Lewis gun was in the line at about the point marked "A" on the sketch. This was quickly worked up to about the point "B".

and from this position, by taking advantage of the lie of the ground and the configuration of the trench, it was possible to enfilade all the enemy holding out there. A few bursts of fire from the gun soon disposed of their resistance.

It is worth noting that before the Lewis gun had finished its work, something had been done by ordinary rifle fire. Seeing an officer dash forward on the trench firing on its defenders with a rifle, his men immediately left their cover and opened a sustained and steady fire. It is reported that this aimed rifle fire undoubtedly had its effect, combined with the enfilade fire from the Lewis gun, in beating down the enemy's opposition.

After this slight check, the advance to the second objective continued without further interruption.

It is suggested that the incident related above emphasizes three things :-

- (1) The value of the Lewis gun as a weapon of opportunity.
- (2) The usefulness of deliberate rifle fire.
- (3) The effect of an officer's example.

NOTE. Though unconnected with the above, it is perhaps worth mentioning that one lesson very forcibly impressed on those taking part in these operations was the uselessness of ordinary bombs for clearing dug-outs. It was the experience of one officer to find a deep dug-out in which two or three Mills Grenades had been exploded with no result, and from which the sentry posted at the entrance was about to be withdrawn. This officer had a "P" bomb fetched and thrown <sup>down</sup> the stairway, whereupon some thirty Germans promptly emerged and surrendered. The gas masks they were wearing appeared to give no protection against the "P" bomb.

APPENDIX "A"

Report of Operations on September 3rd. 1916.Reference. Trench Map. Guillemont. 1/10,000.

1. On the 3rd. September the Army resumed the offensive. The 20th. Division, in conjunction with the 16th. Division on the left and the 5th. Division on the right, was detailed to assault the strongly fortified village of GUILLEMONT. The place had resisted several previous attacks by other Divisions and its capture was repeatedly declared by the higher command to be of the utmost importance.
2. The scheme of the attack was to assault and carry the village by a series of "bounds", each "bound" being consolidated and cleaned up before a further advance was made.
3. The final objective of the 20th. Division was to be a line from the West corner of LEUZE WOOD to GUINCHY TELEGRAPH.
4. The 59th. Brigade, which was the assaulting Brigade of the 20th. Division, formed up with the 10th and 11th. Battalions Rifle Brigade and the 6th. Battalion Oxford and Bucks Light Infantry (60th. Brigade) on the right and the 10th. Battalion K.R.R. with one Company of the 11th. Battalion K.R.R. on the left.
5. The 10th. Battalion Rifle Brigade assembled in COPSE TRENCH and the trenches east of it, its left on Guillemont Road, its right on Point S.30.b.~~2~~ 3.2. (opposite centre of ARROW HEAD COPSE). The 11th. Battalion was on our right, with the 6th. Oxford & Bucks L.I. behind both Battalions.
6. The Infantry Advance and intense Artillery Bombardment began at noon, which was the Zero Hour. After this the Artillery barrage lifted at the rate of fifty yards a minute.
7. At noon the Battalion left its trenches in four "waves", "C" and "D" Coys. forming the first two, "A" and "B" Coys. the two behind. Headquarters accompanied the fourth "wave".
8. The first Battalion objective, viz, the first SUNKEN ROAD from S.30.b.9.8. to S.30.b.7.2. was taken in one rush under heavy fire, and the enemy's trench was thoroughly 'mopped up.' Several prisoners were taken here.
9. The Battalion then moved forward, following up the barrage, to its second objective, viz, the second SUNKEN ROAD from T.25.a.2.8. to T.25.a.4.2. On the way very heavy rifle and machine gun fire was encountered from both flanks and especially from a trench running roughly East and West between the two objectives. The fire from this latter trench checked the advance momentarily, but a Lewis Gun was pushed forward to enfilade it. This enabled the trench to be stormed and every German in it was killed.
10. The greatest resistance met with during the operations was encountered at this second objective, but in the end it was effectually dealt with and the second SUNKEN ROAD fell into our hands.
11. After this the third objective, viz, from T.25.a.7 $\frac{1}{2}$ .7 $\frac{1}{2}$  to the South East end of the village at T.25.a.10.4 $\frac{1}{2}$ . was successfully reached, though on the way our casualties from both shelling and machine gun fire on the right were somewhat heavy.

12. The fourth objective, viz. the road from T.25.b.1.9. to the point of the village at T.25.b.1.5. was taken without much hand to hand fighting.
13. After the capture of this objective it was found that the Battalion front had swung round somewhat too much to the right and a movement half left was necessary for the advance on the fifth objective, viz, the GUINCHY - WEDGE WOOD Road.
14. The line of this road was gained about 2.30.p.m. and here many Germans were killed and many prisoners sent back.
15. Owing to the advance of the 5th. Division on the right being held up, it was decided not to attempt to push on to the final objective (see Para. 3. above) although there is little doubt that this also could easily have been reached. Accordingly the line of the GUINCHY-WEDGE WOOD Road was consolidated and battle patrols pushed out well forward to LEUZE WOOD. The work of consolidation was carried out quickly and thoroughly in spite of the exhaustion of the surviving troops, and in the line so formed the Battalion remained until relief on the following night.
16. All attempts to keep up communication during the attack by telephone proved unsuccessful and it was necessary to employ runners for all messages. Invaluable service was rendered by the contact control aeroplanes, with whom the Infantry was always in touch.
17. The work of the artillery was excellent and their co-operation with the aircraft appeared to be perfect.

APPENDIX "B"

REPORT OF OPERATIONS ON SEPTR. 17th/16.

Reference Trench Map Sheet 57c.S.W.

1. The 59th. Brigade relieved the 3rd. Guards Brigade on the night of the 16th/17th. in trenches North East of Ginchy. Owing to recent fighting, in which considerable progress had been made, there was a good deal of uncertainty as to exactly where the front line lay. The guides provided for the Battalion all lost their way at first, and even Headquarters of the Battalion relieved could give no proper information about their dispositions.
2. Early on the 17th. it was made clear that the trench held by all four Companies of the Battalion (to which the guides had led them and which had been duly taken over from the Guards as their front) did not face the enemy at all. It was in fact a captured German communication trench, running at right angles to the enemy's front, and the part occupied by the Battalion extended from about T.3.c.9.5. to T.2.d.4.0. Battalion Headquarters were then at about T.8.c.5.4. in a narrow slit trench.
3. During the afternoon an Officer was summoned to Brigade Headquarters and returned about 4.p.m. with orders that an attack was to be carried out at 6.30.p.m. on the German Trench from T.3.a.1.8. to T.3.d.1.6½. It was then believed ~~by the Guards~~ that the trench on each side of this objective was held by our own troops, and that to capture the portion indicated above would result in a continuous front parallel with the enemy instead of at right angles to them.
4. Orders for the assault were got out immediately in spite of great difficulties arising from a heavy and continuous shelling and the absence of any communication except by means of runners.
5. These orders provided for an assault at 6.34.p.m. after four minutes intense bombardment by our guns. The 11th. Rifle Brigade would be on the right, the 11th. Batt. K.R.R. on the left and this Battalion in the centre, advancing in two lines, "A" and "B" Companies in front and "C" and "D" Companies 60 yards in rear of them. The Brigades on our right and left, who were supposed to hold the trench on each side of the objective, were to cooperate by bombing down the trench towards our objective.
6. About 5.30.p.m. Battalion Headquarters moved up, through heavy shelling to a dugout in the old German Trench T.8.a.5.5.
7. About 6.30.p.m. our bombardment began, but was very weak and ill directed, and appeared to do the enemy little harm. At 6.34.p.m. the Battalion left the parapet and tried to swing round parallel with the German front.
8. Heavy Machine Gun fire was at once opened from the German lines, many men being hit whilst actually on the parapet. This fire came from both flanks and from the objective itself, thus showing how ineffective the bombardment had been. Machine Guns were also firing from behind the German front line.
9. In face of this fire advance was impossible and what was left of the assaulting troops returned to their original positions.
10. As soon as the attack was attempted, the enemy opened a heavy and well directed Artillery barrage about 500 yards behind the point where the troops left the parapet.

11. Upon this subsiding the Commanding Officer visited the front line and reorganised the defences. The enemy made no attempt to follow up this repulse.
12. It was of course now clearly proved that the trench on each side of the objective was not held by our troops, and next night a front parallel with the enemy was secured by digging a new trench at right angles to the communication trench that was being held.

Carnoy Valley.	Oct 1st.		The Battalion was occupying dugouts at the foot of the Northern slope of the Carnoy Valley. This day "Summer Time" was put back again to Greenwich Time. The training of the new drafts recently received was pushed on and classes for Lewis Gunners, Signallers and bombers continued. Working party of 75 sent up to forward area.
"	2nd.		Training continued. Working party of 100 men sent up to forward area.
Trones Wood.	3rd.		Training continued in the morning. Working parties of 255 in all sent out. At 4.30.p.m. orders received to move immediately. By 5.40.p.m. the Battalion was clear of the camp, but owing to the mud, darkness and traffic congestion did not reach the new Camp near TRONES WOOD until 8.30.p.m. Transport could hardly move at all along the muddy tracks, and such wheeled vehicles as came with the Battalion took all night in getting in. The only accomodation was a few bivouacs and the trenches, and the Battalion spent a most uncomfortable night.
"	4th.		The rain continued. Working parties of 150 sent out. At 1.p.m. orders came to relieve 61st. Brigade in front line. The C.O. visited 61st. Brigade H.Q. and returned in time to lead the Battalion up at 5.30.p.m. The distance was long and the condition of the ground very bad, and it was found hard to get the men of new drafts along. Forward of Brigade Headquarters the trenches were almost knee deep in mud. The relief was very difficult, but by 2.35.a.m. all four Companies and Headquarters had relieved the 7th. K.O.Y.L.I. in NEEDLE Trench, South of GUEDECOURT. This was the support line. The front line was held by the 10th. K.R.R.
Trenches South of Gueudecourt.	5th		The trench was found to be a quiet one, though much shelling went on all around. At 8.30.p.m. the S.O.S. signal was sent out by wire from the Brigade on the right, and the Battalion stood to, but the alarm was probably false and things soon quietened down. That night Capt. Wake joined the Battalion with 200 men of the previous days working party who

K.R.R., but there was much confusion and both Battalions had to go short. During the night every available man and 100 men of the 11th. K.R.R. worked on a new communication trench up to the front line, which was almost completed. 2/Lt. C.A. Wright, 2/Lt. A. Cockle, 2/Lt. G. V. Lockett, 2/Lt. S.Q. Servante. 2/Lt. G. Trotter reported for duty. During the day news arrived that the 61st. Brigade would come in again that night. This Brigade in view of operations the next day, put two Battalions in the front line. When these had gone past, the Battalion was allowed to evacuate NEEDLE Trench. This they did about 12.30.a.m. but Headquarters had to remain to hand over to 7th. D.C.L.I. who relieved about 4.0.a.m. 2/Lt. Chapman and 2/Lt. Martin reported for duty
Montauban.	7th.		After relief the Battalion reassembled in a canvas Camp just South of MONTAUBAN, Headquarters arriving about 7.30.a.m. The day was spent in cleaning up and resting. News arrived that the 60th and 61st. Brigades had got all their objectives.
Meaulte.	8th.		About 10.30.a.m. the Battalion left for MEAULTE, Owing to the crowded roads, which rain compelled the troops to use instead of tracks, the march was very slow and it was about 2.00.p.m. before billets were reached. On this march, owing to traffic congestion, intervals of 1000 yards between Battalions and 200 yards between Companies, were ordered. The billets were dirty and accommodation limited.
Mericourt L'Abbee.	9th.		The Battalion left billets at MEAULTE at 8. a.m. and reached billets at MERICOURT about 10.a.m. after marching with the same intervals as on the previous day. Billets were dirty, but otherwise not unsatisfactory. 2/Lt. T.H. Henderson reported for duty.
